A paper printed at Galveston called Flake's Bulletin thus explains the origin of this idea:-

"During the war, when designing politicians wished to fire the Southern heart anew, they told the people that if they did not succeed in secession their lands would be divided amongst their lands would be divided amongst their slaves, and the whites of the South would be placed beneath the blacks and become hewers of wood and drawers of water. Politicians said so from the stump to audiences in which there were negroes; their presence there can easily be understood by all who are acquainted with the Southers Section. of steamers between Brazil and the United States, he had come to congratulated, that the work was accomplished. The sentiment of cordial sympathy expressed by the Brazilian Minister in his request, met a response in every heart. It was then resolved to print 1,000 copies of the speeches of both gentlemen, together with a memorial received from Rev. Dr. Jaryer.

New York, Nov. 2.—The steamer Chas. Leary, from Galveston, 4th ult, has arrived. She suffered some from gales and put into Hattaras on the acquainted with the Southern States;
